BREAK OUT TRACKS:

Track 1 – The Contract of Carriage in a Modern Age

What place does the venerable contract of carriage occupy in today's modern, digitalised age---and is it the wellspring of legal rights and obligations it once was? This panel will examine the significant shifts in technology, consumer statutes and retailing practices that weigh upon the role of contract for passenger and cargo operations, as well as the legal implications of industry initiatives such as OneOrder and OneRecord.

Speakers include:

- Katie Caplan, Managing Counsel – Alliances, United Airlines (Moderator)
- Drew M. Derco, Member-In-Charge, Eckert Seamans Cherin & Mellott, LLC

Track 2 – Privacy, Cybersecurity and International Air Transport

Data and privacy remain favoured twins in the attention of businesses and regulators everywhere. Consistency of regulation has been a major point of contention in the airline industry, which has asked for greater cooperation between governments on legal frameworks. This panel will take stock of progress on point, identify key pressure points, such as on transfers, biometrics and PNR, sketch out the promise and pitfalls of new technologies for privacy compliance and appraise the latest regulatory activity on cybersecurity.

Speakers include:

- Jeremy Moreton, Head of Legal GBS, IAG
- Elias Corona, Data Protection Officer, Cathay Pacific
- Ao Lei, Assistant Research Fellow, Civil Aviation Authority of China

ADR: A Compelling Route for Aviation Businesses?

It is said that today's international airline businesses have a limited appetite for arbitration or other forms of ADR, largely preferring court or negotiated settlements where disputes are concerned. Is this accurate and, if so, why does the sector 'lag' behind others in its use of arbitration? What role can specialist courts of arbitration play, and what factors weigh for and against arbitration as a preferred method in this industry? Our panel will tackle these and related issues, including the prospects for ODR and AI in the field.

Speakers include:

- Roy Goldberg, Member, Clark Hill PLC (Moderator)
- Gary Doernhoefer, Founder, ADR Notable

Chicago on Safety and Airworthiness – A Need to Flex?

Issues of safety, airworthiness and certification, as well as mutual recognition, pose questions at the intersections of public and private law. How have the principles at the heart of the Chicago Convention flexed since 1944 and, if they haven't, do they need to for effectiveness? This panel will explore the complex relationship between public functions and private law, tackling the issues commonly arising in the financing and ownership of aircraft, cross-registry arrangements under Article 83 bis and regulatory accountability for safety outcomes more broadly among governments, manufacturers, lessors, operators, maintenance providers and enforcement authorities.

Speakers include:

- Professor Jiefang Huang, Zhou Gengsheng Chair, Wuhan University
- Laura Pierallini, Founder and Managing Partner, Studio Pierallini

LUNCHEON

14h00 – 15h30

BREAK OUT TRACKS:

Track 1 – Taxation Flashpoints in International Air Transport

Chicago left some hard tax questions unresolved, touching only indirect taxation. The industry's international reach makes for the thorniest of double taxation problems save for a degree of alignment between governments in other places on income, jet fuel, sales taxes (ie VAT/GST) and import duties. Pressure now abounds however with developments on the Article 8 principle, the OECD framework on BEPS and a new UN-sponsored taxation convention. Our panel will appraise the current international legal situation on taxes, identify the near-term flashpoints for airline businesses and scope areas for renewed harmonisation.

Speakers include:

- Shereena Rai, Litigation and Regulatory Lawyer, British Airways plc
- Peter Sandor, Partner, Eversheds Sutherland

Track 2 – The Rise and Rise of Consumer Protection

This panel will explore rise and rise of mode-specific consumer protection laws in the industry and the growing emphasis on cash compensation, near strict liability and codified service entitlements. Join us as we discuss recent developments in Australia, the United States, Canada, among others, the tightening of regulations, and what these changes could mean for airlines and their advisers alike. Can approaches in Asia offer a useful contrast? Will the direction of travel will be one-way in 2025 or will we see a rationalisation of policy approaches to the area?

Speakers include:

- Sophie Hayashi, Managing Director and Assistant General Counsel, A4A (Moderator)
- Clara De Castro, SVP-Legal, Philippine Airlines
- José Ignacio García Arboleda, Partner, Garcíarboleda Abogados
- Carlos Martins, Partner, WeirFoulds LLP
- Mark Mackrell, Partner, Norton White Lawyers
- Shiqi Chen, Legal and Compliance Manager, China Eastern Airlines
