COASTAL BEAUTY + HERITAGE

Galle Fort, also known as the Dutch Fort or the "Ramparts of Galle," is a seventeenth-century colonial fort in Sri Lanka. It stands on a rocky promontory facing the Indian Ocean and is surrounded by rocky shores and an imposing landside rampart. The fort has a rich history, having been first built in 1588 by the Portuguese and later extensively fortified by the Dutch during the 17th century from 1649 onwards. It is a historical, archaeological, and architectural heritage monument that maintains a polished appearance due to extensive reconstruction work by the Archaeological Department of Sri Lanka. The Galle Fort has a multi-ethnic and multi-religious population and has been recognized by UNESCO as a cultural heritage World Heritage Site for its unique exposition of "an urban ensemble which illustrates
